A beautiful picture book biography about the Queen of Soul, Aretha Franklin, and how she fought for equal rights throughout her life.

Aretha Louise Franklin grew up in a house of music. The shy daughter of a famous Detroit preacher and civil rights activist, Aretha's big voice surprised those around her, and everyone agreed: her powerful singing would someday make her a star.

After relocating to New York City and signing a record deal, Aretha relentlessly pursued her dream of stardom. But it took many years of tireless touring and recording until her hit record "Respect" finally brought her the acclaim she deserved. Along the way, Aretha used her talents to fight for respect and equal rights along the way by refusing to perform for "whites only" audiences. With six decades of hits, countless memorable performances, and millions of lives touched, Aretha's legacy of resilience and respect will inspire for generations to come.

For fans of The Antlered Ship, this evocative, beautifully illustrated picture book celebrates one girl's limitless imagination.

The wishing stars burn bright tonight, the air is thick with dreams

And a deeply sleeping dinosaur is waking up it seems . . .

In a little town by the seaside, Marianne can often be found foraging on the beach. But she isn't playing with children her own age; instead Marianne is alone, digging for dinosaur bones. When she finds an entire skeleton, she names him Bony and vows to become his best friend.

That night, she goes to sleep wishing with all her heart that her dinosaur might come to life . . . and her wish comes true. Together, a girl and her dinosaur's adventures are only limited by their imagination.

From the creator of Perfectly Norman and Ruby Finds a Worry comes a clever and engaging book about controlling temper tantrums.

Ravi is the smallest in his family, but most of the time, he doesn't mind it. Until his short arms can't reach the monkey bars, he can't find anyone during hide-and-seek, AND he's too little to ride the big slide. Ravi is so mad—so furious—that he can't control his temper anymore . . .

. . . and he becomes a ferocious, roaring TIGER!

Being a tiger is great fun. Tigers can do ANYTHING they want! But who wants to play with a growling, wild tiger who won't share or play nicely? Ravi is about to discover something very important about expressing his feelings and making amends.

This smart and vibrant new story from the author/illustrator of Ruby Finds a Worry is the perfect springboard for helping children learn how to express and understand their anger.

Tom Percival is the author and illustrator of the picture books Ruby Finds a Worry, Perfectly Norman, Herman's Letter, Herman's Vacation, and Bubble Trouble. A sparkling and inspirational picture book about a girl who wants to be a pirate, her tattooed grandpa, and their indelible bond.

When the neighborhood boys tell CeCe that she can't be a pirate, she goes straight to her Grandpa, who must know something about being a pirate. Why else would he have all those tattoos?

As Grandpa shares each tattoo with CeCe, they are transported to imaginative lands where they learn all the qualities a pirate should possess: A pirate must be BRAVE and QUICK, but also FUN and INDEPENDENT. And the most important thing is to believe in yourself, whether you're a pirate or not.

This fanciful, heartwarming story from Isaac Fitzgerald, founding editor of BuzzFeed Books and host of BuzzFeed News Twitter morning show #AMtoDM, is brought to life by New York Times bestselling illustrator Brigette Barrager in a vibrant, joyful expression of what it means to be... all kinds of wonderful things, including a pirate.

A hilarious interactive story that comes with a strict warning for readers: DON'T TOUCH this monster's trucks!

Monster has lots of cool trucks—trucks that are good at digging deep trenches, pushing dirt and rocks around, and lifting all kinds of heavy materials. But Monster is NOT going to share! No one is going to touch his bulldozer, fork lift, front loader, crane, or dump truck.

But what happens when the reader decides to do exactly what Monster has said NOT to do? Monster is in for a wild ride, as he's scooped and raised and dumped all over the place. Thankfully, the end result—after the reader pushes and pulls levers, buttons, and gears galore— is a surprise that's good fun for everyone (especially Monster).

Perfect for fans of Press Here, this interactive picture book about working together is silly, monstrous, and heartwarming.

Poppy's not flashy, but she stands out in her own way. This charming book about a girl who loves nature celebrates quieter kids.

Poppy Ann Fields loves bugs—sitting in the grass singing with cicadas, carrying on conversations with ladybugs—and feels much more at home outside with six-legged friends than with other people. Inside, Poppy prefers to disappear into the background. Some might call her a wallflower. But when Grandma Phyllis turns 100, Poppy must go to the party. She wears a dress that blends into the garden setting, so she's almost invisible, until a very special bug lands on Grandma Phyllis's cake. Poppy can't resist popping out to see it. Soon, the rest of the party guests notice this beautiful wild thing—Poppy and the dragonfly!

With a gently poetic text from newcomer Larissa Theule and wildly charming illustrations by Sara Palacios, this story shows that sometimes a wallflower is actually a wildflower.

A detailed history of how many of the world's most recognizable modes of transportation came to be.

Every day, all over the world, people travel: short trips or great voyages, moving slowly and steadily or racing along at super-fast speeds. They make their trips in cars, trains, planes, ships and on bikes—and some people have even blasted off in rockets! But how did these vehicles become what we know now?

With intricately illustrated timelines, this book takes readers on a journey through the developmental history of various modes of transportation—from chariots to electric cars, dugout canoes to ocean liners, cable cars to bullet trains, and the many iterations in between. The fascinating stories behind each of these machines join together to reveal a comprehensive history of how new and inventive forms of transportation have built off one another to change our world.

Available in paperback for the first time, Martin W. Sandler's award-winning book about Japanese-American internment camps.

While Americans fought for freedom and democracy abroad, fear and suspicion towards Japanese Americans swept the country after Japan's sneak attack on Pearl Harbor. Culling information from extensive, previously unpublished interviews and oral histories with Japanese American survivors of internment camps, Martin W. Sandler gives an in-depth account of their lives before, during their imprisonment, and after their release. Bringing readers inside life in the internment camps and explaining how a country that is built on the ideals of freedom for all could have such a dark mark on its history, this in-depth look at a troubling period of American history sheds light on the prejudices in today's world and provides the historical context we need to prevent similar abuses of power.

Martin W. Sandler is the award-winning author of 1919 The Year That Changed America, Imprisoned, Lincoln Through the Lens, The Dust Bowl Through the Lens, and Kennedy Through the Lens. He has won five Emmy Awards for his writing for television and is the author of more than sixty books, two of which have been nominated for the Pulitzer Prize and four of which were YALSA-Nonfiction Award finalists. The magic of Arranmore Island is threatened in Book 2 of Catherine Doyle's highly acclaimed Storm Keeper series.

There is magic deep within Arranmore Island, and Fionn Boyle is discovering how much it's woven its way through generations of his family's history. But Arranmore is in trouble; illness has swept across the land, giving rise to widespread fear and suspicion. Fionn wants to help, but the Storm Keeper magic passed down from his grandfather seems to have deserted him. When evil sorceress Morrigan's soul stalkers return, Fionn must find a way to protect the island. But how can he call upon a vast number of ferocious sea creatures without any magic or the faintest idea of where to look for them? The race to save Arranmore has begun. This gorgeously written, magical tale of family, bravery, and self-discovery is perfect for fans of Orphan Island and A Snicker of Magic.

Catherine Doyle grew up beside the Atlantic Ocean in the west of Ireland. Her love of reading began with great Irish myths and legends, and fostered in her an ambition to one day write her own. The Storm Keeper's Island is her debut middle-grade novel and was inspired by her real-life ancestral home of Arranmore Island (where her grandparents grew up), and the adventures of her many sea-faring ancestors. After living in Dublin City for two years, Catherine is now based in Galway but spends a lot of her time in the US and London. catherinedoylebooks.com • @doyle_cat

A never-before-told firsthand account of Jo Ann Allen, a trailblazer in American history, for fans of Brown Girl Dreaming and Warriors Don't Cry.

In 1956, a year before the integration of Central High School in Little Rock, fourteen year old Jo Ann Allen made history when she and eleven other black students in Clinton, Tennessee integrated a public high school. As outside protesters arrived, tensions rose. Soon even the students themselves wondered if they should just return to their old school. Jo Ann wanted everything a girl her age should be able to have: friendships, an education, and time to daydream about her crush—but instead, she was thrust into national spotlight as a spokesperson for the cause. This nonfiction in verse, the first children's book about this forgotten moment in history, is based on Jo Ann's experience as well as extensive primary source research and features archival materials and notes from the authors.

Jo Ann Allen Boyce was one of twelve students to integrate Clinton High School in 1956. She worked as a registered nurse for 41 years, 39 of which were in pediatrics. This Promise of Change is her first book. She lives in Los Angeles.

A fascinating compendium of presidential near-misses and moments of bravery--perfect for fans of untold histories.

Historians tell the stories of tragic and untimely presidential deaths, but often forgotten are the near misses. JFK and his fellow servicemen spent six days on a desert island with only coconuts to eat after a deadly attack during WWII. Abraham Lincoln was forced to take a train trip in disguise while America's first female detective worked to foil an early assassination attempt. And when Andrew Jackson was attacked by an upset citizen who had been stalking him for months, frontiersman Davey Crockett stepped in to save him. With fast-paced, immediate writing and including supplemental archival photographs and archival materials, this book chronicles thirteen thrilling undertold stories of U.S. presidents' moments of bravery.

The first illustrated telling of the Everest story that equally features Edmund Hillary and Sherpa Tenzing Norgay.

On the morning of May 29, 1953, the sun was shining brightly and a gentle breeze was blowing on the highest elevation of the world--and for the first time ever, people were there to witness it. Their names were Edmund Hillary and Tenzing Norgay, and they had ascended Everest. This is the breathtaking story of how these two men battled frost-biting temperatures, tumbling ice rocks, powerful winds, and death-defying ridges to reach the top of the world's highest mountain.

Combining fresh and contemporary illustrations by Joe Todd-Stanton with Alexandra Stewart's action-packed text, this unique narrative tells the complete stories of Edmund Hillary and Tenzing Norgay--from their births right up through their final days--and the lasting impact they've had on the world.

Alexandra Stewart studied Modern History at Oxford University before training to be a journalist. After working as a reporter on a number of newspapers, she worked as a press officer for the Metropolitan Police and, later, Central Government. She subsequently worked as a speechwriter. Alex lives in London.

Joe Todd-Stanton is the author and illustrator of The Secret of Black Rock. He is the winner of the Waterstones Children's Book Prize 2018 and has been long listed for the 2018 CILIP Kate Greenaway Medal. He lives in England. www.joetoddstanton.com

Acclaimed author Kate Messner blends a hijinks-filled mystery with the timely #MeToo movement in a heartfelt and important new novel.

When Mia moves to Vermont the summer after seventh grade, she's recovering from the broken arm she got falling off a balance beam. Packed away in the moving boxes under her clothes and gymnastics trophies is a secret she'd rather forget.

Mia's change in scenery brings day camps, new friends, and time with her beloved grandmother. But Gram is convinced someone is out to destroy her cricket farm. Is it sabotage or is Gram's thinking impaired from the stroke she suffered months ago? Mia and her friends set out to investigate, but can they uncover the truth in time to save the farm? And will solving one mystery empower Mia to confront the secret she's been hiding?

In a compelling story rich with friendship, science, and summer fun, a girl finds her voice while navigating the joys and challenges of growing up.

Kate Messner is a former middle-school English teacher and the author of E. B. The enchanting Unicorn Quest series reaches its thrilling conclusion as two sisters fight to save a magical land from destruction.

Claire has always depended on her older sister, Sophie, to take care of her, but now it's Claire's turn to protect Sophie. Upon discovering the last unicorn's secret plan, Claire sets off on her own to make things right in Arden—the magical land she and her sister discovered after climbing their great-aunt's chimney. But there are terrible forces working against her.

The unicorn-hunting Queen Estelle has returned, and she won't stop until she has regained the throne and taken revenge on all those who have opposed her. Claire, Sophie, and their friends must find a way to convince Arden's four guilds of magic to set aside the past if they are to have any hope of a future. Because if the queen has her way, Claire and Sophie will never return home and the unicorns of Arden will be lost . . . forever.

The second book in an enchanting series about sisters who enter a magical land where they may be the key to saving the unicorns.

Claire and Sophie have decided to stay in Arden—the magical but troubled land they discovered up the chimney in their aunt's estate. The sisters have learned that they are the last descendants of the Arden prince, and that only a royal heir with magic in their blood can awaken the unicorns. Since Sophie does not have magic, Arden's last hope of saving the unicorns rests on Claire.

The sisters journey to Stonehaven so Claire can learn to harness her Gemmer abilities. As Claire finds her training more difficult than expected, Sophie uncovers the dangers of their situation. Can Claire prove she is the heir and unlock the magic of the unicorns—before it's too late?

This spellbinding sequel blends the timeless feel of The Last Unicorn with Frozen's powerful themes of identity, enchantment, and sisterhood.

From the author of Caterpillar Summer comes the story of a young girl navigating her friendship with the middle school Queen Bee.

Meg has been best friends with Beatrix forever. Everyone at school wants to be like confident, decisive Beatrix, and Meg has always felt the same. But this year, Meg wants to take a science course instead of dance class. She'd rather do what makes her happy—not what Beatrix wants.

When a quirky girl named Hazel moves to town, Meg is partnered with her on a science project about bees. Meg learns a lot about being Queen Bee—in a hive and in middle school. As Beatrix is less than welcoming to Hazel, Meg feels her loyalty fraying. Choosing Hazel could mean ending her oldest friendship; a choice more difficult than Meg ever expected.

By turns heartbreaking and empowering, The Queen Bee and Me explores the challenging dynamics of middle-school friendship in a way readers of any age will appreciate.

This critically acclaimed middle-grade debut tells the story of a girl, her special needs brother, and the summer they'll never forget.

Cat and her brother Chicken have always had a very special bond. When Chicken has a "meltdown," Cat's the one who scratches his back and reads his favorite story. She always knows what he needs. Since their mom has had to work double-hard to keep their family afloat after their father passed away, Cat is the glue holding her family together. When a summer trip doesn't go as planned, Cat and Chicken end up spending three weeks with grandparents they've never met. With their help, Cat can be a kid again for the first time in years, and the journey she takes shows that even the most broken relationships can be healed if people take the time to walk in one another's shoes.

Perfect for fans of Lynda Mullaly Hunt and Ali Benjamin, this special novel features an unforgettable new voice and is brimming with heart.

For fans of Book Scavenger comes a smart and funny middle grade mystery with built-in logic puzzles that readers can solve.

Twelve-year-old painter Esther can't wait to attend Camp Vermeer, the most prestigious art camp around. But when her stepdad accidentally drives up the wrong mountain and it starts to storm, she's stuck at Camp Archimedes—a math camp!

Determined to prove herself to the other campers, she tackles a brain teaser that should be impossible, and solves it in a single day. But not everyone is happy about it... someone wants her out of camp at any cost, and starts leaving cryptic, threatening notes all over the camp's grounds. Esther doesn't know who to trust. Can she solve this riddle before it's too late?

Featuring tricky logic puzzles readers can solve along with the characters and starring a unique, smart, and crafty young heroine, this story has just the right mix of mystery, humor, and wit.

Krista Van Dolzer was inspired to write this story in part by her degree in Mathematics Education from Brigham Young University. She's a stay-at-home mom by day and a children's author by bedtime. She lives with her husband and three kids in Mesquite, Nevada. She's also the author of The Sound of Life and Everything, a Junior Library Guild selection, and Don't Vote for Me.

The sweeping Elementae series continues with more elemental magic and heart-stopping romance, perfect for fans of Sarah J. Maas.

Aspasia might be the captain of her own ship, but she isn't free. Forced to find and bring slaves to her own cruel slaver, Cyrus, Aspasia tries to free as many women, children, and Elementae—those who can control earth, air, fire, and water—as she can. Aspasia commands the seas and skies with her crew on her flying ship, but she is still desperate to find her younger siblings who were kidnapped years ago. When she frees a young man with whispers of Elementae magic, Aspasia finds herself drawn to him. Kairos joins her crew, and she learns that he is the brother of the queen of the Bone Lands, who is leading a rebellion against her husband. Aspasia soon finds herself in the middle of a brewing war, but she'll have to outrun Cyrus—and worse—if she's going to fight for her family and her freedom.

Brigid Kemmerer continues her bestselling fantasy series in another tale full of dark magic, new love, and a kingdom on the edge of ruin.

Find the heir, win the crown. The curse is finally broken, but Prince Rhen of Emberfall faces darker troubles still. Rumors circulate that he is not the true heir and that forbidden magic has been unleashed. Although Rhen has Harper by his side, his guardsman Grey is missing, leaving more questions than answers.

Win the crown, save the kingdom. Rumored to be the heir, Grey has been on the run since he destroyed Lilith. He has no desire to challenge Rhen—until Karis Luran once again threatens to take Emberfall by force. Her own daughter Lia Mara sees the flaws in her mother’s violent plan, but can she convince Grey to stand against Rhen, even for the good of Emberfall?

The compulsively readable saga continues as loyalties are tested and new love blooms in a kingdom on the brink of war.

A kingdom in peril. A heart-stopping romance. This blockbuster new series is a lush retelling of Beauty and the Beast, perfect for Cinder fans.

Cursed by an enchantress to repeat the autumn of his eighteenth year, Prince Rhen, the heir to Emberfall, thought he could be saved easily if a girl fell for him. But that was before he turned into a vicious beast—before he destroyed his castle, his family, and every last shred of hope.

Nothing has ever been easy for Harper—with her father long gone, her mother dying, and her brother constantly underestimating her because of her cerebral palsy. When she tries to save a stranger on the streets of D.C., she’s pulled into a magical world.

Harper doesn’t know where she is or what to believe. As she spends time with Rhen, she begins to understand what’s at stake. And as Harper proves to be more than just another girl to charm, Rhen realizes he can do more than break the curse . . . he can save his kingdom.

Acclaimed author Tonya Bolden brings the women's suffrage movement to life with a teen girl finding her own way to change the world.

Savannah is lucky. The daughter of an upper-class African-American parents in Washington D.C. in 1919, she lives luxuriously, with an elite education and her pick of the young men in her set. But lately the structure of her society—the croquet games, the Sunday teas, the pretentiousness—has felt suffocating.

When she meets a young man from the working class named Lloyd, Savannah has a chance to see how the “other half” lives. Saddened by their situation, she is motivated to make a true difference. But suffragist lectures and socialist meetings are a radical interest for a young girl from society, and Savannah must find a way—her way—to change the world. Deeply relevant and emotionally resonant for modern readers, this searing story reveals a girl becoming a woman in a world on the brink of sweeping change...

Award-winning author Tonya Bolden pens a poetic novel about a young African-American woman's self-discovery in the Reconstruction Era.

As a young black woman in 1880s Savannah, Essie's dreams are at odds with her reality. Unwilling to accept the path available to her, Essie is trapped between the life she has and the one she wants. Until she meets Dorcas Vashon, the richest and most cultured black woman she's ever encountered. When Dorcas makes Essie an offer she can't refuse, she becomes Victoria. Transformed by a fine wardrobe and a classic education, she is welcomed in the upper echelons of black society in DC. But when the life she desires is finally within her grasp, Victoria must decide how much of herself she is truly willing to lose.

In this searing historical novel, Tonya Bolden illuminates another pivotal period in American history with an intimate portrait of a young woman who risks everything for a future of her own making.

Bestselling and award-winning Renée Watson and poet Ellen Hagan offer a YA feminist anthem about raising your voice, for fans of The Poet X.

Jasmine and Chelsea are best friends, and they're sick of the way women's voices are silenced even at their progressive high school. They start a Women's Rights Club, Write Like a Girl, and post everything online—poems, essays, videos of Chelsea performing, Jasmine's response to racial microaggressions she experiences—because art is never just art, and they know they can use it to make a difference. Soon their work goes viral, and even with growing support, the club is targeted by trolls. When things escalate in real life, the school principal shuts down the club. But Jasmine and Chelsea will risk everything for their voices—and those of other young women—to be heard.

Watson and Hagan introduce two dynamic young women who stand up and speak out in a novel that features their powerful art and poetry.

Renée Watson is the New York Times bestselling, Newbery Honor and Coretta Scott King Author Award-winning author of the novels Piecing Me Together, This Side of Home, What Momma Left Me, Betty Before X, co-written with Ilyasah Shabazz, and two picture books: Harlem's Little Blackbird and A Place Where Hurricanes Happen. Renée is also the founder of the nonprofit I, Too, Arts Collective. She lives in New York City.

Two sisters become rivals for the title of Emperor in this buzzy Asian-inspired fantasy for fans of Sabaa Tahir and Tomi Adeyemi.

Sisters Lu and Min have always known their places as the princesses of the Empire of the First Flame: bold Lu expects to become the dynasty's first female ruler, while timid Min believes she'll live in Lu's shadow. But when their cousin is named heir instead, Lu goes on the run, leaving Min to face the court alone.

To reclaim her birthright, Lu forms a tenuous alliance with Nok, the lone survivor of a clan of wolf shapeshifters . . . who never learned to shift. Meanwhile, Min's own power awakens—a forbidden magic that could let her claim the throne herself. But there is only room for one Emperor, and the sisters might become each other's greatest enemy.

This sweeping fantasy set against a world of ancient magic and political intrigue weaves an unforgettable story of ambition, betrayal, and sacrifice.

Mimi Yu was born and raised in rural upstate New York. She is an alumna of VONA/Voices. She received a BA in liberal arts from Sarah Lawrence College and an MFA from the New School/Parsons School of Design. She currently resides in Chicagoland with her husband. In this sweeping YA fantasy debut, two girls—one running away, and one returning home—find their magical fates intertwined.

On the edges of a sealed-off city, two girls meet for only a moment. Lena is on the run after being sentenced to death for possessing magic; Constance will do anything to get back inside her former home. But the brief encounter in the misty, dangerous Duke's Forest is long enough to alter both of their fates.

As Lena finds a place where she can develop her powers, Constance must decide whether to trust her former family and friends. All the while, the girls remain connected through terrifying storm clouds that hang over the land—clouds that only the two of them hold the keys to dispelling. But the truth behind the clouds' presence is shockingly sinister . . . and could mean that one girl will lose everything.

This rich, immersive fantasy includes a shocking ending that will make readers want to revisit Len...

The New York Times bestselling author of Everless pens a fantasy series about a haven between worlds—and a girl sworn to protect it.

The Inn at Havenfall is Maddie Morrow’s one solace from her complicated life—and the only place she sees her crush, Brekken. But few know that beneath the sprawling manor in Colorado lie gateways to hidden worlds, some of which have been sealed with magic.

When Maddie arrives at the Inn unexpectedly, nothing’s as it should be. She has an odd run-in with alluring new staffer Taya, and then a dead body is discovered, shattering the Inn’s peaceful sanctity. Worse, Brekken stands accused of the murder . . . and goes missing. With everything she loves at stake, Maddie must confront shocking truths about the dangers lurking beneath Havenfall—and herself.

This compelling, feminist YA novel for fans of Becky Albertalli follows one girl’s summer of secrets, heartbreak, and discovery.

Vetty can’t wait to see her childhood best friend (and crush), Pez. They were inseparable, even sharing their first kiss, until Vetty moved away years ago. She hopes that now she’s back the relationship will pick up where it right left off. But she soon realizes Pez isn’t the boy she once knew, with his sophisticated friends and glamorous maybe-girlfriend March. New Pez talks about girls in a way Vetty isn’t used to and keeps secrets, like strange files hidden on his computer. Still, Vetty’s feelings won’t fade, and she’s determined to find the Pez she remembers.

But what Vetty doesn’t expect is her attraction to March. For the first time, she realizes she might be bisexual. She embarks on a summer of falling out of and into love that could change everything—most importantly, how she sees herself.

This poignant romantic contemporary YA debut is perfect for fans of Nicola Yoon and Jenny Han.

Anyone who follows Emerald on social media only sees a perfect life—a loving, wealthy family, a tightknit group of friends, and a devoted internet following. But the truth hides behind the scenes of her perfectly framed, filtered photos... Emerald's family is far from happy, and when she finds her mom unconscious on the bathroom floor, she can no longer keep it a secret.

Sent to stay with her grandmother in an isolated beach town while her mother recovers, Emerald fears the long, lonely summer. Then she meets Liam, an aspiring songwriter with his own troubles. But can two people so used to secrets and lies really fall for each other—brave and true—with no filter? This fresh, funny debut is refreshingly grounded and sweepingly romantic all at once.
