After their carefully-constructed life plans change, a mother and daughter must rebuild their bond

But when the network tells Caroline that her daughter is to replace her as host, Caroline feels betrayed and old in the eyes of the world. Jamie is unsettled by the cast change and devastated by her mother's anger, but she has little time to brood when a tragic accident leaves her two-year-old half brother in her care. Accustomed to a life of order and precision, Jamie is out of her depth.

Down a Dark Road

A convicted murderer is on the run and Chief of Police Kate Burkholder must catch him before he strikes again.

Two years ago, “fallen” Amish man Joseph King was convicted of murdering his wife and sentenced to life in prison. Now King has escaped from prison. . .and is headed for Painters Mill. For Chief of Police Kate Burkholder, this case is personal. As a thirteen-year-old Amish girl, Kate had worshiped the ground King walked on. Still, Kate never could have imagined the nightmare scenario that becomes reality when King shows up to take his five children hostage —armed, desperate, and with nothing left to lose.

Fearing for the children’s safety, Kate agrees to meet King face to face. His only request: to help him prove his innocence. Though skeptical, she agrees—only to discover that the facts and the evidence of King’s case don’t align, and that someone may have set him up to take the fall for murder. Someone who wants to keep a terrible secret buried forever. . .and is willing to kill again.

Being the responsibility of a notoriously wicked duke who upended so many lives is an unexpected challenge when she realizes he arouses her decidedly feminine desires. Marlena must be careful. Jane Bunker thought she'd escaped the pollution, noise, and crime of urban life when she left her job as a Miami homicide detective and moved back to the idyllic town of Green Haven, Maine. But now that she's working as a marine insurance investigator, Jane is about to discover that murder can happen in lovely little fishing villages, too. .

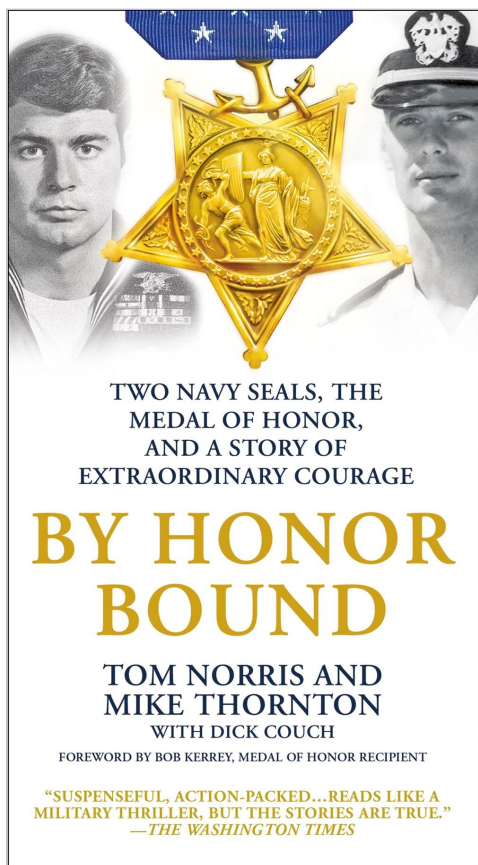

When Jane is called to the remote Acadia Island to assess the damages from a house fire, she also finds a badly burned body in the charred rubble. It turns out that the victim is the owner of the house, who just happened to be one of the most wealthy—and hated—women in town. As Jane's investigation deepens, it's clear that someone went to a lot of trouble to make her death look like an accident. Meanwhile, a vicious nor'easter is making its way up the coast. Can Jane manage to solve the case before the storm puts a deep freeze on the investigation. . .and puts her in the path of a cold-blooded killer?

By Honor Bound

The powerful and moving story of two Medal of Honor recipients, written by New York Times bestselling author Dick Couch.

In April of 1972, SEAL Lieutenant Tom Norris performed an unprecedented ground rescue of two American airmen who were shot down behind enemy lines in North Vietnam, a feat for which he would be awarded the Medal of Honor. Just six months later, Norris was sent on a dangerous special reconnaissance mission that would take his team deep into enemy territory. In the running gun battle that ensued, Lieutenant Norris was severely wounded; a bullet entered his left eye and exited the left side of his head. SEAL Petty Officer Mike Thornton, under heavy fire, fought his way back onto a North Vietnamese beach to rescue his officer—an act of heroism that earned him the Medal of Honor as well.

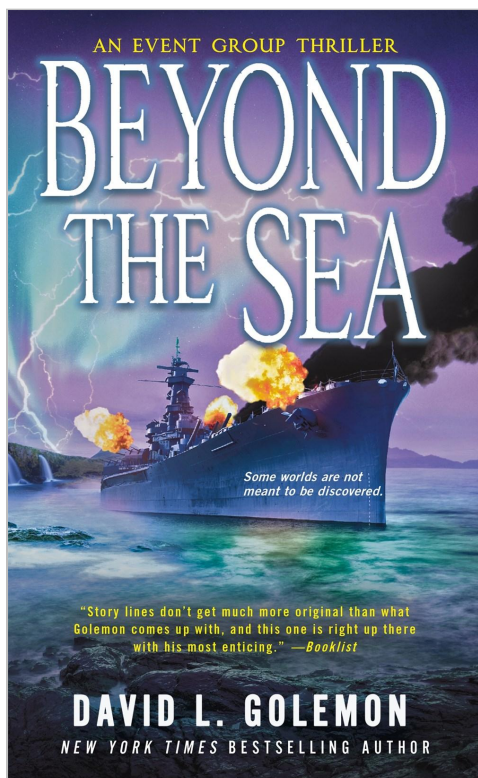

This is the true story of two living American legends who entered military service and the Navy SEAL teams for vastly different reasons—and were thrown together for a single combat mission that would define their lives.

KEY SELLING POINTS:

- This harrowing story of two Navy SEALs who risked their own lives to go back for one of our own falls into a tradition of great military stories.
- The Medal of Honor is the highest distinction for valor and courage the U.S. military awards. Most awards are posthumous. Today there are fewer than 75 living recipients and our authors are two of them.

- We also have a terrific foreword by Bob Kerrey, a fellow Medal of Honor recipient and former Governor and Senator from Nebraska.

"A compelling and highly readable excursion into the actions of valorous men facing improbable odds." -Admiral Eric T. Olson, USN (Ret), Former Commander, US Special Operations Command

"An exciting read and an All-American story that reflects their devotion to duty and to their brothers in arms." -Rick Perry, former Governor of Texas

The Deadwood Trail

At last, a reissue of one of the greatest Western series of all time

For veteran ranchers Nelson Story of Montana, and Benton McCaleb of Wyoming, it was an opportunity a man didn't pass up. In gold camps of the Black Hills, miners were hungry for beef, at boomtown prices. But within the two outfits were Indians, gunmen, Texans, lovesick cowboys, and high-spirited women. Worse, the drive would pass through Crow and Sioux territory, when Custer's defeat at the Little Big Horn was just hours away. The drives were tangled by violent grudges, stampeding herds, and dangerous deception. The two brawling outfits had one thing in common: a deadly surprise awaiting them at the end of the trail.

Ralph Compton brings this violent and magnificent time to life in an extraordinary series based on the history-blazing trail drives.
