The next intense installment in Allison Brennan's New York Times bestselling Lucy Kincaid series.

That is, until her first hostage case throws everything off track.

When a man who appears under the influence and mentally unstable holds a group of people hostage and dies in a shootout with the FBI, Lucy is assigned to investigate what happened. His descent doesn't make any sense - he was an upstanding citizen a year ago and only started declining after a series of blackouts and strange occurrences. A True Cowboy Christmas

It doesn't get better than smoking hot cowboys from USA Today bestselling author Caitlin Crews!

Gray Everett is the only cowboy in his family with a heart. The oldest of the three Everett brothers, he's the only one who is trying to keep his family's cattle land from the fat-cat investors looking to turn it into cookie-cutter condos. Never mind the fact that he's been raising his daughter alone since his impetuous, wild wife crashed her car years ago and left him a single father. He wants to keep the land in his family and work it the way they've always done, but in order to do that, he needs more land. Land from the farm next to his. And in order to get it, he may have to strike a deal with the down-to-earth beauty next door...

Abby Douglas grew up on the farm down the road from the Everetts and has been in love with stern, uncompromising Gray all her life. She never expected him to notice her—what kind of cowboy goes after the plain Jane girl-next-door like her? But when Gray proposes they marry in order to combine land, Abby knows in her heart she can't refuse. All she has to do is make sure he never finds out how long she's loved him. But being married to the cowboy of her dreams makes that a whole lot easier said than done...

Linda Greenlaw

Slipknot

The first book in the Jane Bunker mysteries by New York Times bestselling author Linda Greenlaw—back in print!

When Jane moves back to Green Haven, the sleepy Maine fishing community where she was born, it's to escape the seamy crime scenes and unsavory characters that crossed her path in Miami. Surely whatever crimes are committed in touristy, idyllic down-east Maine won't involve anything as nasty as what she saw in Florida. It's a bit of a shock, then, when Nick Dow, the town drunk, turns up dead, and it's not the simple accident that everyone assumes it to be. The more Jane digs, the more confused she gets. Only two things are certain: Nothing is what it seems; and the whole town is in each other's business. But it's not until Jane impulsively hops on a boat with the killer—a boat that suddenly heads out to sea—that things become downright dangerous. . .

As she proved in The Hungry Ocean, no one knows the sea like Linda Greenlaw. And as she proved in The Lobster Chronicles, no one spins better tales of Maine village life. This first installment in Greenlaw's mystery series features everything readers want: a great setting, wonderful characters, an authentic and original detective—and a story that will keep them on the edge of their seats.

“Greenlaw proves that she’s as skillful a mystery writer as she is a fishing boat captain—and that’s saying a lot. A fantastic read!” —Sebastian Junger

“Greenlaw, author of nonfiction bestsellers such as The Lobster Chronicles, has no trouble finding her sea legs in... this swiftly paced yarn.” —Entertainment Weekly

“A sleepy Maine town, the local drunk found dead, a detective asking too many questions... No, not Murder, She Wrote—it’s [Greenlaw’s] first foray into mystery, and it’s riveting.” —People

Anna Bennett

First Earl I See Tonight

A charming, delightful new regency romance series from author on the rise, Anna Bennett!

She needed a husband of convenience. She got her one true love instead...

Miss Fiona Hartley's huge dowry should have ensured that finding a husband would be quick. True, she's a tad older than the average debutante, and spends too much time sketching brutally honest character portraits. She desperately needs a husband so she can access her dowry, lest the man blackmailing her reveals a secret that would ruin her family. So desperate in fact, that she's willing to do the unthinkable—propose marriage to the most surly, irritable gentleman in town...

As a matter of principle, David Gray, the Earl of Somerdale, avoids two types of women: those who are obviously desperate, and those who are stark-raving mad. And it soundly appears Miss Fiona Hartley is both. Yet David can't help but be drawn to her, and gives her a test—if she can spend one week in his dilapidated estate—the same one that caused his previous fiancée to jilt him—then he'll consider her proposal. But as the week goes on, Fiona's refreshing wit find a way into his heart. What started out as a marriage of convenience has turned into love...but will Fiona have him for the rest of her days?

And to learn more, Roman has no choice but to return to the land he once ruled, a land of fire and ice.

Sabina's quiet life is shattered by the arrival of two men she quickly learn aren't just immortal, but Dragon Kings. It's through her brother that she discovers their ancestors are the ones who stole the sword. Wanting to set things right, Sabina agrees to help Roman. She never imagines it will mean leaving her home for Iceland, overcoming her fear of heights, and realizing she's much stronger than she ever knew. But it's finding love in the arms of a dragon that makes it all worthwhile.
