Last Girls

Demetra Brodsky

A twisting suspense about sisterhood, survival and family secrets set in the world of doomsday prepping

Honey Juniper and her sisters live by a simple code: we stick together, no matter what. It's a code that works equally well on the road with their paranoid mother, in every new school they have to attend, and in the event of a potential apocalypse.

Escalating global tensions. Unstable President. Climate change. There are so many ways it could all go down. But Honey and her sisters are prepared. It's only a matter of time until the world ends, but their world won't be ending with it.

But when their mom moves them to a secretive compound where there are other kids like them--kids who know how to shoot a compound bow, kill and cook meat they've raised, and what SHTF (when 'shit hits the fan,' ie: prepper speak) means, they'll have to face an entirely new kind of danger.

They thought they were preparing for a potential apocalypse. But the real threat is much closer to home.

Tavia is already at odds with the world, forced to keep her siren identity under wraps in a society that wants to keep her kind under lock and key. Nevermind she's also stuck in Portland, Oregon, a city with only a handful of black folk and even fewer of those with magical powers. At least she has her bestie Effie by her side as they tackle high school drama, family secrets, and unrequited crushes.

But everything changes in the aftermath of a siren murder trial that rocks the nation; the girls' favorite Internet fashion icon reveals she's also a siren, and the news rips through their community. Tensions escalate when Effie starts being haunted by demons from her past, and Tavia accidentally lets out her magical voice during a police stop. No secret seems safe anymore— soon Portland won't be either.

A new supernatural thriller set against the backdrop of a post-hurricane Puerto Rico

After the hurricane, some see destruction and some smell blood.

The tiny island of Vieques, located just off the northeastern coast of the main island of Puerto Rico, is trying to recover after hurricane Maria, but the already battered island is now half empty. To make matter worse, as on the main island, developers have come in to buy up the land at a fraction of its worth, taking advantage of the island when it is down.

Lupe, Javier, and Marisol are back to investigate a series of murders that follow in the wake of a hurricane and in the shadow of a new supernatural threat.

Chasing Starlight

Teri Bailey Black

A high concept, light-hearted, historical YA about the Golden Age of Hollywood

1938. The Golden Age of Hollywood. Palm trees and movie stars. Film studios pumping out musicals, westerns, and gangster films at a furious pace. Everyone wants to be a star—except society girl and aspiring astronomer Kate Hildebrand, who'd rather study them in the night sky. She's already famous after a childhood tragedy turned her into a newspaper headline. What she craves is stability.

But when Kate has to move to Hollywood to live with her washed-up silent film star grandfather, she walks into a murder scene and finds herself on the front page again. She suspects one of the young men boarding in her grandfather's run-down mansion is the killer—maybe even her grandfather. She searches for clues.

Now, Kate must discover the killer while working on the set of a musical—and falling in love. Will her stars align so she can catch the murderer and live the dream in Old Hollywood? Or will she find that she's just chasing starlight?

Part Katharine Hepburn and Humphrey Bogart, with a dash of Veronica Mars.

PRAISE

“Chasing Starlight is a mystery as alluring as old Hollywood itself—and fun! Teri Bailey Black’s story has a historical-yet-modern feel, and the setting is so creative and cinematic you’ll feel as if you’re sitting on a film set. With a cast of dream-chasers who showcase both the glamour and the grit, Chasing Starlight is delightful from the first scene to the last.” —Jodie Lynn Zdrok, author of Spectacle

“Chasing Starlight dazzles with richly drawn characters, a breathtaking mystery, and a vivid 1930s Hollywood setting. Black masterfully evokes the glamour and darkness of a mesmerizing era steeped in secrets, lies, and dreams.” —Cat Winters,...

TERI BAILEY BLACK grew up near the beach in Southern California in a large, quirky family. She's happiest when she's creating things, whether it's with words, fabric, or digging in the garden. She lives with her husband and four children in Orange County, California.

But Amarande was raised to be a warrior—not a sacrifice.
